Authorizing statutes: A.R.S. §§ 32-1901(40) and 32-1904(A)(1) and (2).
Implementing statutes: A.R.S. §§ 32-1904(B)(3) and (4)(a), 32-1929, 32-1930(A)(2), and 32-1931(A), (B), (C), and (D)(4).
- The name and address of agency personnel with whom persons may communicate regarding the rule:

Name: Dean Wright, Compliance Officer
Address: Board of Pharmacy
5060 N. 19th Ave., Suite 101
Phoenix, AZ 85015
Telephone: (602) 255-5125 Ext. 131
Fax: (602) 255-5740
- An explanation of the rule, including the agency's reasons for initiating the rule:

This rule was initiated at the request of the Nuclear Pharmacy Committee of the Arizona Pharmacy Association. The Arizona Pharmacy Association represents pharmacies and pharmacists in the state of Arizona. The members of the Nuclear Pharmacy Committee are nuclear pharmacists who work for Syncor International and Medi-Physics Inc., the 2 nuclear pharmacy companies in Arizona. In March of 1995, the Nuclear Pharmacy Committee drafted a proposed nuclear pharmacy rule which was presented to the Board staff. The Board staff worked with the committee to refine the proposal. A draft rule was presented to the Board for comment in the fall of 1995 and again in July 1996. The Governor's Regulatory Review Council staff did a courtesy review in June 1995. This rule is the culmination of that joint effort.

The rule includes new definitions for "authentication of product history", "authorized nuclear pharmacist", "limited-service nuclear pharmacy", "internal test assessment", "pharmaceutical care", "radiopharmaceutical", "radiopharmaceutical quality assurance", and "radiopharmaceutical services". The existing rules addressing radiopharmaceuticals are found in Sections R4-23-681 and R4-23-691. The new rule keeps Section R4-23-681 with some modifications and repeals Section R4-23-691. A new Section R4-23-682 is created containing new language and revised and updated language from the repealed Section. The rule addresses grammar, format, and style changes necessary under the current Administrative Procedures Act and other necessary language changes to provide a clear, concise, and understandable document.

The rule changes the title of Section R4-23-681 to read: General Requirements for Limited-service Nuclear Pharmacy. Subsection titles, such as, General, Compliance with other laws, and Transfer of drugs are eliminated. Subsection (A) becomes an introductory statement and subsections (1) and (2) become subsections (1), (2), and (3). The newly defined word "radiopharmaceuticals" replaces the words "radioactive pharmaceuticals" throughout the rule. Subsection (B) is deleted because existing rule already prohibits compounding and dispensing of drugs by anyone other than a pharmacist or pharmacy intern under a pharmacist's immediate supervision. Subsections (C), (D), and (F) change to subsections (B), (C), and (D) respectively, with necessary grammar, style, and format changes. Subsection (E) is deleted because existing rule already addresses the security of drugs. Subsection (G) is deleted because the contents are now addressed in the policies and procedures specified in the new Section R4-23-682. Subsection (H) is deleted because the requirements are addressed in existing rules.

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

The title of the new Section R4-23-682 is Limited-service Nuclear Pharmacy. The language from Section R4-23-691 addressing minimum requirements for area and equipment is updated with necessary grammar, style, and format changes. The equipment requirements are streamlined using the existing requirements of the Radiation Regulatory Agency instead of listing each item of glassware and supplies. The reference library requirement is changed to reflect the style of existing rules for community and hospital pharmacies. New language in subsections (A) and (B) establish the requirement for a limited-service nuclear pharmacy permit. Subsection (E) establishes requirements for records of acquisition, inventory, and disposition of radiopharmaceuticals. Subsections (G) and (H) establish specifications for written policies and procedures for pharmacy operation and drug distribution.

The Board believes that adoption of these rules will benefit the public health and safety by establishing clear standards for limited-service nuclear pharmacies. The Board further believes that specific regulation and enforcement are necessary to regulate and control the rapidly evolving role of pharmacists in a dynamic healthcare system.

5. A showing of good cause why the rule is necessary to promote a statewide interest if the rule will diminish a previous grant of authority of a political subdivision of this state:

Not applicable.

6. The preliminary summary of the economic, small business, and consumer impact:

This economic, small business, and consumer impact statement for the nuclear pharmacy rule analyzes the costs, savings, and benefits that accrue to the Board of Pharmacy, Secretary of State, pharmacists, technicians, pharmacies, and the public.

With the adoption of the proposed rule, the impact on established Board of Pharmacy procedures, Compliance Officer time, and other inspection related costs is minimal. The benefits to the Board and its compliance staff are non-quantifiable. The estimated additional cost to the Secretary of State's office is minimal. This additional cost stems from Secretary of State's staff time publishing the rules.

The benefits provided by the proposed rules are non-quantifiable. The rule deals with specialized pharmacies and benefits the Board of Pharmacy by promoting consistent compliance. The rule provides protection of public health and safety while allowing service by a unique method or to a particular population. Arizona pharmacies benefit from a rule specific for the particular area of practice because the rule is concise and compliance standards are crystal clear. Pharmacists benefit from better control of all aspects of pharmacy practice through established written policy and procedure.

Under exiting rule, nuclear pharmacies are treated as community pharmacies. The nuclear pharmacy rule establishes nuclear pharmacies as limited-service pharmacies. By becoming limited-service pharmacies, existing nuclear pharmacies will bear the cost of complying with the rules for limited-service pharmacies. R4-23-671(E)(2) requires all limited-service pharmacies to submit a copy of the pharmacy's written policies and procedures to the Board office with the original permit application and R4-23-671(E)(3) requires all limited-service pharmacies to conduct a biennial review and revision of the policies and procedures and submit a copy of any revision to the Board office. The additional cost to limited-service nuclear pharmacies is the cost of copying the policies and procedures which is minimal. All existing nuclear pharmacies in the state already use a written policies and procedures system, so creating these policies and procedures will not be an additional cost.

7. The name and address of agency personnel with whom persons may communicate regarding the accuracy of the economic, small business, and consumer impact statement:

8. The time, place, and nature of the proceedings for the adoption, amendment, or repeal of the rule or, if no proceeding is scheduled, where, when, and how persons may request an oral proceeding on the proposed rule:

Comments may be written or presented orally. Written comments must be received by 5 p.m., Monday, March 17, 1997. An oral proceeding on the proposed rule is scheduled for:

Implementing statutes: A.R.S. §§ 23-706, 23-727, 23-761 through 23-766, 23-771 through 23-777, 23-791, and 23-793

4. An explanation of the rule, including the agency's reasons for initiating the rule:

The Department of Economic Security operates the Unemployment Insurance (UI) program, authorized under Titles II and IX of the Social Security Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, and Arizona Revised Statutes Title 23, Chapter 4. The UI program, financed by a state and federal tax on employers, pays benefits for temporary periods to workers who are involuntarily unemployed. These rules govern the 3 major functions of the UI program: the collection of the unemployment tax, the payment of unemployment benefits, and an administrative appeal process.

With the exception of a number of rules included in a 1995 rulemaking package, the rules were adopted or last amended in the late 1970s or early 1980s. The rules continue to have merit but they do not reflect the current format and style requirements. The rules are being amended to improve clarity, to eliminate gender specific terminology, and to delete language which merely quotes or paraphrases statutory text. A number of rules are being repealed because they contain duplicative requirements or reflect internal procedure.

In this rule package, the Department is also making the following changes:

- adopting a rule to administer A.R.S. § 23-793, Qualified transient lodging employment, enacted in 1996;

- renumbering the rule on interested parties and amending this rule to expand its application; and

- amending rules affecting unemployment insurance benefit activities to better define "in training with the approval of the Department," "full-time student," "last employment," "good cause for refusing work," and "temporary-help agency."

5. A showing of good cause why the rule is necessary to promote statewide interest if the rule will diminish a previous grant of authority of a political subdivision of this state.

6. The preliminary summary of the economic, small business and consumer impact:

Benefits paid to an individual who has left work voluntarily without good cause in connection with his employment, or has left work for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer and not warranting disqualification for benefits, or has been discharged for misconduct connected with his work, shall not be chargeable to the experience rating account of an employer, from whom the individual's services were so terminated for the remainder of any current benefit year in which the employer's experience rating account is being charged, for a benefit year subsequently established. If such individual is reemployed by the such employer or his successor, the circumstances of the separation from such reemployment shall determine whether the employer's experience rating account shall be charged with benefits paid in a benefit year commencing subsequent to such termination. When chargeability of benefits depends upon the circumstances under which the claimant was separated from his work as set forth in paragraph (D) of Section 23-727, then a determination that benefits shall not be charged may be made upon information obtained from the claimant or from any other source; but if necessary information is not thus obtained by the deputy, then to be relieved of charges in a proper case the employer is obligated to submit necessary separation information in writing to the Department within 10 days after the date of written notification or mailing of notice by the Department that the individual has first filed a claim for benefits subsequent to such separation from employment.~~
- ~~E. Benefits paid to an individual who continues to perform part-time employment to the same extent while filing claims for benefits as he performed for the same employer during his base period shall not be chargeable to the such employer's experience rating account for those weeks during which all conditions specified in regulation R6-3-1709 are met.~~
- ~~F. Benefits paid to an individual for any week during which his unemployment for any portion of a day results from a labor dispute, strike, or lockout at the factory, establishment or other premises at which he was last employed immediately prior to the such labor dispute, strike, or lockout, shall not be chargeable to the experience rating accounts of the base period employers of the such individuals if:~~
- ~~1. They are paid for weeks of unemployment during which the dispute exists;~~
 - ~~2. They are paid for weeks of unemployment subsequent to the termination of the dispute and the employer involved in the dispute submits evidence satisfactory to the Department that the individual's unemployment is a result of the labor dispute, strike, or lockout. Such evidence shall be submitted in writing within ten days after the date of mailing of notice by the Department that the individual~~

- G. ~~Benefits paid to an individual whose employment was terminated by retirement pursuant to a nongovernmental retirement or lump-sum retirement pay plan under which the age of mandatory retirement has been agreed upon between the employer and his employees or by the bargaining agent representing such employees, shall not be chargeable to the experience rating account of an employer from whom the individual's services were so terminated. To be relieved of charges in a proper case, the employer is obligated to submit necessary information in writing to the Department within 10 days after the date of written notification or mailing of notice by the Department that the claimant has first filed a claim for benefits subsequent to the separation from such employment.~~

In conformity with A.R.S. §§ 23-727, 23-773, and 23-777, the Department of Economic Security prescribes:

- A. When the Department establishes a benefit overpayment, the Department shall proportionately credit the amount of the overpayment to the experience rating accounts of the claimant's base period employers, who are being charged, as of the calendar quarter the overpayment is established.
- B. When the Department transfers wage credits to another state for use in establishing a claim, the Department shall:
1. Not charge an experience rating account for any benefits paid when the transferred wage credits are insufficient to establish a claim in this state; or
 2. Determine chargeability of the experience rating account as prescribed in A.R.S. § 23-727(D) when the wage credits are sufficient to establish a claim, except if the account is charged, total charges shall not exceed the maximum amount payable by this state; or
 3. Not relieve a reimbursement employer of payments in lieu of contributions, including charges exceeding the maximum amount payable by this state.
- C. Except as otherwise provided by A.R.S. § 23-727(E) and R6-3-1708(D), once the Department noncharges the experience rating account of an employer for benefits paid during the benefit year the account remains noncharged for the duration of the benefit year. If the employer reemploys the claimant during the benefit year, the circumstances of the reemployment separation determine chargeability of the employer's account for any benefits paid during a benefit year beginning after the reemployment separation.
- D. As required by A.R.S. § 23-777(C):
1. The Department shall end the noncharge to the experience rating account of a base period employer of a worker who is unemployed due to a labor dispute, and shall determine the employer's chargeability for benefits in accordance with A.R.S. § 23-727 in the following circumstances:
 - a. The labor dispute ended and the worker returned to work or refused an offer of work with the employer involved in the labor dispute; or
 - b. The dispute is ongoing and the worker:
 - i. Had bona fide intervening employment that meets the provisions of R6-3-5604(C) and is no longer unemployed due to the labor dispute; or
 - ii. Was permanently replaced by the labor dispute employer.
 2. When a worker remains unemployed after a labor dispute ends, the Department shall continue to noncharge the experience rating account of the worker's base period employer if the labor dispute employer presents evidence, within 10 days of the Department's request, that the employer has a continuing employer-employee relationship with the worker. Evidence establishing the relationship may include:

- a. Placement of the worker's name on the recall list;
 - b. Continuation of the worker's benefits, including insurance, profit sharing, vacation, and sick leave; and
 - c. Retention of the worker's seniority rights.
3. When the worker's continued unemployment ceases to be a result of the labor dispute, the Department shall redetermine the employer's chargeability for benefits paid to the worker as prescribed in A.R.S. § 23-727.
- E. For the purpose of applying A.R.S. § 23-727(F):
1. A retirement pay plan is a plan provided by either a nongovernmental individual employer or group of employers in a collective retirement plan; and
 2. A collective retirement plan is a group of employers and workers in an industry that pay into 1 fund for the workers' retirement.

- D. Extended period for registration and the filing of claims for good cause. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (3), if the Department finds that the failure of any individual to register and file a claim for partial unemployment benefits within the time set forth in paragraph (3) was due to failure on the part of the employer to comply with any of the provisions of paragraph (2), or to coercion or intimidation exercised by the employer to prevent the prompt filing of such claim, or to failure by the Department to discharge its responsibilities promptly in connection with such partial unemployment, the

 - iv. The claimant's signature or personal identification number;
 - v. A statement from the training facility as to whether the claimant is enrolled in training and satisfactorily pursuing the training course; and
 - vi. The signature or identification number of the training facility's representative which is on file with the Department as being authorized to certify to the claimant's training attendance and progress.
 - b. The claim is timely filed when the Department receives the claim within 14 days of the claim week ending date. If the claim is not received within 14 days, the claimant shall establish good cause for the untimeliness as prescribed in R6-3-5475(H).
 - c. If the training facility has a temporary break in training of less than 6 weeks, and the facility notifies the Department by telephone or in writing that the claimant will continue the training after the break, the Department shall deem the claimant in training.
- 2. For purposes of A.R.S. § 23-771.01(B), the Department shall deem subsistence benefits received from a governmental, nonprofit, or community agency for the claimant's own personal entitlement as a training allowance.
 - a. A subsistence payment for the claimant's own personal entitlement includes funds covering transportation or meal costs, but does not include funds covering course costs, tuition, books, supplies, tools, or an allowance for dependents.
 - b. The Department shall allocate the training allowance for each week claimed starting with the week the claimant first receives the allowance or the week the claimant receives notice from the agency paying the allowance of the amount to be paid, whichever occurs first.
 - c. An overpayment shall not result from retroactive payments for weeks prior to the paying agency notice or first payment, unless the claimant fails to tell the Department about the allowance.

ARTICLE 50. VOLUNTARY LEAVING BENEFIT POLICY

R6-3-5005. General (V-L-5) General Provisions

Section 23-775 of the Employment Security Law of Arizona provides in part: "An individual shall be disqualified for benefits:

- 1. For the week in which he has left work voluntarily without good cause in connection with his employment, if so found by the department, and in addition to the waiting week, for the duration of his unemployment and until he has earned wages in an amount equivalent to five times his weekly benefit amount otherwise payable."
- A. Definition. The term "left work voluntarily" (voluntary quit), for the purpose of benefit payment, means the termination of a worker-employer relationship by means of the worker's own intention, as distinguished from the termination of employment brought about by either:
 - 1. The initiative of the employer, or
 - 2. Considerations outside the control of the worker.
- B. Purpose of the disqualification.
 - 1. Only those workers who are involuntarily unemployed are to receive benefits. Those who leave work voluntarily without good cause in connection with their work will not receive benefits. Consideration must be given not only to the fact that they left work voluntarily but also to the circumstances and reason for leaving. The mere fact that a worker quits a particular job does not necessarily mean that he is voluntarily unemployed. The specific reasons for leaving must be considered in determining if the separation is voluntary or involuntary.
 - 2. The employer's experience rating account shall not be charged when it is determined that the worker left the employment voluntarily and without good cause in connection with the work.
- C. Leaving for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer (V-L-5.1)
 - 1. A separation for a compelling personal reason is not disqualifying.
 - 2. Benefits paid to claimants who have separated from their work for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer shall not be charged to the employers' experience rating account.
 - 3. Definitions.
 - a. "Compelling" means to drive or urge with force, to constrain, to force to yield, to overpower. Synonyms for "compel" are require, coerce and drive.
 - b. "Personal reasons" for leaving are those causes which arise from the personal circumstances of the claimant as distinguished from causes arising from a condition created by or relating solely to the employment. Generally, changes in the personal circumstances create the compulsion for separation. Changes in conditions or terms of employment may affect the claimant's personal affairs and compel a worker to leave; however, these reasons are related to the work and should not be considered as personal circumstances when applying the law.
 - c. The term "attributable to the employer" although often considered synonymous with "in connection with his employment" is less restrictive. It includes reasons relating not only to conditions of employment but also to an employer's conduct, which may or may not concern the employment relationship. Any act or omission of the employer which renders the work unsuitable for the claimant would constitute good cause attributable to the employer.
 - d. Among the reasons for leaving which generally may be determined as being for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer are:

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

- ~~Compensable industry injury (See R6-3-50235(B))~~
- ~~Conscientious objection~~
- ~~Distance to work~~
- ~~Domestic circumstances~~
 - ~~Care of children~~
 - ~~Head of household in another locality~~
 - ~~Housing~~
 - ~~Illness or death of immediate family members~~
- ~~Health or physical condition~~
- ~~Military service~~
- ~~Resuming attendance at approved training (Deputies are responsible for examining availability and other eligibility factors for each claimant)~~

e. Reasons which generally may be determined as non-compelling personal reasons are:

- ~~Attendance at school~~
- ~~Domestic circumstances~~
 - ~~Household duties~~
 - ~~Marriage~~
 - ~~Pension~~
 - ~~Personal affairs~~
 - ~~Prospect of other work~~
 - ~~Self-employment~~
 - ~~Vacation~~
 - ~~Weather or climate~~

f. Reasons which should be considered as attributable to the employer and which should be considered only in relation to A.R.S. § 23-775, 1 of the law (voluntary leaving without good cause in connection with employment) generally will be:

- ~~Residence requirements~~
- ~~Disciplinary action~~
- ~~Equipment~~
- ~~Hours and days of work~~
- ~~Leaving in anticipation of discharge~~
- ~~Leaving prior to effective date of discharge~~
- ~~Nature of work~~
- ~~Union relations~~
- ~~Wages~~
- ~~Working conditions~~

A. For the purpose of interpreting A.R.S. § 23-775(1), the following phrases have the meanings prescribed in this subsection:

1. "In connection with the employment" means a condition related to employment caused a worker to leave employment. If the employer changes the conditions or terms of employment, and the changes affect the worker's personal affairs, the worker leaves employment in connection with the employment rather than as a result of personal circumstances.
2. "Left work voluntarily" means that a worker terminated the worker-employer relationship and intended to do so.

B. For the purpose of interpreting A.R.S. § 23-727(D), the following phrases have the meanings prescribed in this subsection:

1. "Compelling personal reasons" mean causes which arise from a worker's personal circumstances rather than from a condition created by or relating solely to the employment and which leave the worker with no reasonable alternative but to end the employment relationship.

2. "Not attributable to the employer" means that an employer committed no act or omission to make an employment relationship unsuitable for a worker.

R6-3-5040. Attendance At School or Training Course (V-L 40)

A. Leaving to Attend School

~~Except as provided in subsection (B), a worker~~ Workers, except those in approved training, who leaves leave a job to attend go to school or training, quits quit voluntarily without good cause in connection with the work.

~~B. Students leaving summer employment. Students voluntarily quit without good cause in connection with the work when they leave summer work because they plan to return to school, even if the hiring agreement was that the student would leave at or near the end of the vacation period.~~

1. The term "student" is as defined in R6-3-1805, except that failure to begin the next regular school term does not remove the worker from classification as a student.
2. "At or near the end of the vacation period" should be interpreted liberally. It means any time that it is logical to conclude that the separation was because of "student" status and not because of other factors. This policy can apply even if the separation was considerably before or a few days after the start of the school term. What matters is that the separation was because of the student status, and not for other reasons.

BC. Leaving for Approved Training

1. ~~Leaving to resume attendance at approved training. A worker~~ Workers in approved for and attending training as prescribed in under A.R.S. § 23-771.01 and R6-3-1809 leaves work for a compelling personal reason if the work: may have
 1. Was temporary, stop-gap employment during school vacation periods or other breaks school closings, and the worker leaves if they leave that work to continue approved training when school reopens opens, they do so for a compelling personal reason; or
 2. Leaving while attending approved training. Workers who are employed while in approved training under A.R.S. § 23-771.01 may find that the work hinders the worker hinders them from making satisfactory progress in school. If they leave the work for that reason, they separate for a compelling personal reason.

R6-3-5050. In connection with employment (V-L 50)

A. When a claimant intentionally ends his employment, it must be determined if the reason for leaving was "in connection with his employment" or for strictly personal circumstances. See R6-3-5005 for general categories.

1. If the worker leaves his employment due to a condition of employment, the leaving is "in connection with his employment".
2. Even though personal circumstances have some bearing on the separations, if it is related to the work, it is "in connection with his employment" rather than a quit for "compelling personal reasons".
3. An employer need not be at fault, nor directly responsible for the worker's difficulty, for a leaving to be for "good cause in connection with his employment".

R6-3-50135. Quit or Discharge Discharge or quit (V-L 135)

A. General (V-L 135.05)

1. A worker's separation from employment is either a quit or a discharge.
2. The claimant quits when he acts to end the employment and intends this result.

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

3. The separation is a discharge when it results from the employer's intent and action. This includes layoff for lack of work, and requests by the employer for worker's resignation.
 4. In borderline cases the determination of whether a separation is a quit or discharge will be made on the basis of who was the moving party.
 - a. The claimant is the moving party when he could have continued to work under conditions of employment not amounting to new work, if the worker is offered continued employment on or before the termination date. This is true even though a date of separation has been stated or agreed to. See R6-3-50315.
 - b. In any other situation the employer is the moving party, and the separation is a discharge.
 - c. Generally, demands or expressions of criticism and efforts to clarify the position of the other party do not constitute notice of intent to quit or to discharge.
 5. Once the notice of intent to end the employment relationship has been given and acted upon by either party, attempts to withdraw the termination action will not usually alter the type of separation.
 - a. The basic cause of separation (discharge or quit) will not change in cases where the separation is set up by one party but allows, under certain conditions, the other party to choose the time and/or type of separation.
 - b. A discharge will be found where the employer has notified the worker that he will be discharged but permits the worker to choose the last day of work.
 - c. An interim agreement does not change the type of separation even though there may be a delay in the date of separation (e.g., the claimant tells the employer he is quitting and accepts the employer's request to work long enough to train a replacement. Subsequent failure by the employer to keep the worker in employment as planned does not make the separation a discharge).
 6. For exceptions to these rules see R6-3-50135(D) and R6-3-50135(D).
- B. Absence from work (V.L. 135.1)
1. Often a determination as to whether a worker left his employment is difficult, especially in two situations:
 - a. When he has been absent from work prior to the time his employer considered the employment ended.
 - b. When it appears that the employer has ended the employment, regardless of any act of the worker.
 2. A leaving will be found when at the time of separation the worker's employment ended as a result of his own act. It is important to examine a worker's acts to see if they had the effect of terminating his employment.
 3. Deliberate absence from work or refusal to report to work is considered a voluntary leaving if a discharge is not definitely established. The date of separation in a leaving arising from absence from work shall be determined in accordance with R6-3-5460(A).
- C. Interpretation of remarks or action of employer or employee (V.L. 135.2). When the known facts in a case do not clearly indicate whether a worker quit or was discharged, it is necessary to interpret remarks or acts of the worker and the employer to reach a decision. It must be determined if the worker by his own act or remarks quit, or whether the acts or remarks of the employer terminated the employment.
- D. Leaving prior to effective date of discharge (V.L. 135.25)
1. Generally a worker would leave without good cause in connection with his work if he quits before the effective date of discharge even though he has been told that the duration of his employment is limited.
 2. He would leave with good cause connected with the work if:
 - a. He can show that he would suffer substantial detriment by remaining at work until the date of discharge, or
 - b. He quits to accept a definite offer of work with another employer.
- E. Leaving in anticipation of discharge (V.L. 135.35)
1. An individual who leaves work in anticipation of a discharge may or may not be determined to have quit, depending on individual circumstances.
 2. The intention of the employer and the claimant must be analyzed. The exact remarks of employer and claimant to each other should be obtained and weighed. It must be determined who initiated the separation and who carried it out.
 3. When a claimant interprets remarks of fellow employees or supervisors to mean that he is to be discharged, he must take steps prior to leaving to find out if he is, in fact, to be discharged. If he fails to do so and was not to be discharged, he leaves work voluntarily without good cause in connection with his work.
 4. Leaving when told he is to be discharged for acts or omissions amounting to misconduct connected with his work is a discharge for misconduct and should be determined under the appropriate Section of these rules.
 5. Leaving because of a disciplinary layoff which is reasonable and non-discriminatory constitutes a voluntary quit without good cause connected with the work. See R6-3-50440(D).
- F. Resignation intended (V.L. 135.4). When a worker submits his resignation to become effective at some future time, but is discharged prior thereto, a question may arise as to whether there has been a discharge for leaving. See R6-3-51135(B).
- G. Leave of absence — definite or indefinite period (V.L. 135.5). (Leave of absence is defined under Voluntary Leaving R6-3-50440.)
1. Definite period
 - a. When an employee is granted a leave of absence for a definite period, but does not return at the expiration of the leave, his reasons for not returning to work determine the type of separation. If a disqualification is applied, the date of separation is the first working day after the expiration of the leave.
 - b. A leaving for compelling personal reason is found if the employee is on leave for a definite period and wishes to return to work before the expiration of the leave, but no work is available unless the leave expires. If the employee fails to return to the work at the end of that leave, and work is then available to him, a new separation determination shall be made.
 - c. When an employee returns at the end of a definite leave of absence, and finds that employer has no work for him, the separation is a layoff.
 2. Indefinite period. When an employee is on leave for an indefinite period but finds on his return that the employer has no work for him, the separation is a layoff.
 3. When an employee on leave of absence applies for benefits without notifying the employer of his availability for work, the separation is generally a voluntary leaving without good cause in connection with the work. The claimant's reason for failure to re-apply for work with his last employer determines whether a disqualification applies.

Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

- H. Volunteering for layoff. When an individual volunteers or submits his name to be considered for a layoff or furlough due to a reduction in the work force, a decision must be made as to who initiated the action.
1. When an employer determines that a layoff is to occur and then inquires as to whether there are individuals who will volunteer for the layoff, the separation is a discharge for nondisqualifying reasons.
 2. When an employee requests or volunteers for layoff status prior to any specific announcement by the employer and the employer acts upon the request, the separation is a voluntary leaving which is disqualifying unless it can be established that the leaving was for compelling personal reasons.
- A. Distinguishing Quits and Discharges
1. Except as otherwise provided in this Chapter, a worker's separation from employment is either a quit or a discharge.
 - a. The separation is a quit when the worker acts to end the employment and intends this result.
 - b. The separation is a discharge when the employer acts to end the employment and intends this result. A discharge includes:
 - i. A layoff for lack of work; and
 - ii. A request by the employer for the worker's resignation.
 2. The Department shall determine whether a separation is a quit or discharge by considering all relevant factors, including:
 - a. Both parties' remarks and actions;
 - b. Who initiated the separation; and
 - c. The parties' intentions.
 3. A party's expression of criticism or effort to clarify the position of the other party does not by itself constitute notice of intent to quit or to discharge.
 4. When the worker or the employer gives notice of intent to end an employment relationship, later attempts to withdraw the termination do not change the type of separation, except as otherwise provided in subsection (5).
 - a. The type of separation does not change even if:
 - i. The party who causes the separation allows the other party to choose the time or type of separation; or
 - ii. The parties agree to delay the date of separation.
 - b. A separation is a quit when the worker tells the employer the worker is quitting but agrees to work long enough to train a replacement. The separation remains a quit even if the employer later fails to temporarily keep the worker.
 5. A separation is a quit when an employer who previously gave a worker notice of intent to end the employment relationship, on or before the intended termination date offers continued employment under conditions not amounting to new work, and the worker elects to leave as of the original termination date.
- B. Leaving Before Effective Date of Discharge
1. Unless a worker establishes good cause or a compelling personal reason for leaving, as prescribed in this Article, a worker who quits before the effective date of discharge leaves work without good cause in connection with the work.
 2. When a worker quits because the employer has told the worker that the worker is to be discharged for acts or omissions amounting to misconduct connected with the work as determined by the Department, the rules in Article 51 governing separation for misconduct apply.

C. Leaving in Anticipation of Discharge

If a worker, based on information other than the employer's authorized notification of discharge, believes that the employer intends to discharge the worker, the worker shall take steps, prior to leaving, to find out if the worker is, in fact, to be discharged. If the worker fails to do so and was not to be discharged, the worker leaves work voluntarily without good cause in connection with the work.

D. Discharge Before Effective Date of Resignation

1. If a worker submits a resignation with a specific effective date, and the employer discharges the worker before the effective date:
 - a. The separation is a discharge for reasons other than work-connected misconduct if the discharge is because of the resignation and is 15 days or more before the effective date of the resignation; and
 - b. The separation is a quit if the discharge is because of the resignation and is less than 15 days before the effective date of the resignation. The reason for the resignation shall determine whether the worker had good cause for quitting or was compelled to quit.
2. If the discharge is not because of the resignation, the Department shall determine whether to assess a disqualification based on the reason for discharge, in accordance with Article 51 of this Chapter.

R6-3-50135.01. Quit or Discharge; Absence From Work

Except as provided in R6-3-50135.03 and R6-3-50135.04, when a separation occurs because of a worker's absence from work, and a discharge is not established:

A. The separation is a discharge if:

1. The worker had a reason for the absence,
2. The worker intended to return to work upon a certain occurrence, and
3. The worker tried to return to work; or

B. The separation is a quit if:

1. The worker did not intend to return to work, and
2. Made no attempt to preserve the job.

R6-3-50135.02. Quit or Discharge; Volunteering for Layoff

When a worker's separation is the result of the worker volunteering for a layoff or furlough due to a reduction in the work force, the Department shall determine whether a disqualification is assessed based on whether the employer or the worker initiated the action.

- A. The separation is a discharge for nondisqualifying reasons when the employer determines that a layoff is to occur and then asks if there are workers who will volunteer for the layoff or volunteer to accept the employer's retirement plan.
- B. The separation is a voluntary leaving without good cause when a worker requests or volunteers for layoff status prior to any specific announcement by the employer and the employer acts upon the request, unless the worker establishes that the leaving was for a compelling personal reason.

R6-3-50135.03. Quit or Discharge; Leave of Absence

A. "Leave of absence" means an agreement between an employer and a worker in which the employer promises the worker that the worker may return to work on a particular date or when a reasonably foreseeable event occurs.

1. A leave of absence agreement may be oral or written.
2. A leave of absence may, but is not required to be, based on a collective bargaining agreement or a company policy.

B. An agreement in which an employer offers a worker only a preference for rehire is not a leave of absence.

Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

- C. If a worker does not return to work at the end of a leave of absence for a definite period, the worker's reason for not returning determines the type of separation.
- D. If a worker who is on a leave of absence for a definite period asks to return to work prior to the end of the leave, and work is not available until the leave ends, the separation is for a compelling personal reason.
- E. If the worker described in subsection (D) later fails to return to work when the leave period ends, and work is available, the Department shall determine that the worker separated as of the first working day after the leave expires and shall determine whether to assess a disqualification based on the worker's reason for not returning to work.
- F. A separation is a layoff when a worker on a leave of absence tries to return to work at the end of a definite leave period, or following a foreseeable event, but the employer has no work for the worker.
- G. When a worker on a leave of absence applies for benefits without first notifying the employer of the worker's availability for work, the worker's reason for not attempting to return determines the type of separation.

R6-3-50135.04. Quit or Discharge; Investigative or Disciplinary Suspension

- A. If an employer places a worker on a suspension without pay pending the investigation of an alleged wrongdoing or as a disciplinary action, the employer-employee relationship is presumed to continue during the suspension period unless one of the following events occurs during the suspension period.
 - 1. The worker gives notice to the employer that the worker does not intend to return to work. When the reason for the leaving is because of the worker's objection to a disciplinary action, the worker's eligibility is determined in accordance with R6-3-50138.
 - 2. The employer notifies the worker that the job will not be available at the end of the suspension. The Department shall determine the reason for separation based on the reason the job is no longer available.
 - 3. The worker files a claim for benefits.
- B. When a worker files a claim for benefits during the suspension period, the Department shall determine the type of separation based on the worker's reason for filing the claim and subsections (B)(1) through (B)(5).
 - 1. If the suspension is for an unreasonable period of time and the worker cannot reasonably be expected to remain ready to return to work at the end of the suspension, the suspension terminates the employer-employee relationship and the worker is discharged on the date the worker was suspended and for the reason the worker was suspended.
 - 2. If the suspension period is not unreasonable, the separation is a voluntary quit.
 - 3. For the purpose of this rule, a suspension of 16 or more of the employer's workdays is a suspension for an unreasonable period of time.
 - 4. If returning to work at the end of the suspension would create an intolerable work situation for the worker, pursuant to R6-3-50515, the separation is a voluntary leaving with good cause in connection with the work.
 - 5. If personal circumstances deemed compelling pursuant to this Article arise during the suspension, making it unreasonable for the worker to return to work, the worker leaves for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer.

R6-3-50135.05. Quit or Discharge; Corporate Officer

When a worker separates from a business in which the worker was a corporate officer, the Department shall use the following guidelines to determine whether to assess a disqualification.

- A. A corporate officer who, on the officer's own accord or as a participant in a decision made by a majority of the officers, decides to sell or close the business or to otherwise separate from the corporation, leaves voluntarily. The reason for the sale or closure determines whether the corporate officer left for compelling personal reasons or had good cause for leaving.
- B. If the corporation is sold because of declining income and increasing indebtedness, the corporate officer leaves voluntarily without good cause unless the corporation could not have continued.
- C. If a corporate officer is forced out by a majority decision of the other officers, the corporate officer is discharged for reasons other than misconduct unless the termination was for reasons which constitute misconduct as defined in A.R.S. § 23-619.01 and Article 51 of this Chapter.

R6-3-50135.06. Quit or Discharge; Temporary Service Employer and Leasing Employer

- A. If a worker separates from a temporary services employer or leasing employer, both as defined in A.R.S. § 23-614(G), after finishing work for the employer's client, the separation is either a quit or a layoff due to lack of work.
 - 1. If the worker has, in accordance with the temporary services or leasing employer's rules and procedures about which the worker knew or should have known, failed to report to the employer regarding subsequent work, the separation is a quit and the Department shall determine the worker's eligibility in accordance with Article 50 of this Chapter.
 - 2. If the worker reported to the employer in the manner required and the employer did not immediately refer the worker to a new assignment, the separation is a layoff for lack of work.
 - 3. If the worker reported to the employer and was referred to a new assignment which the worker refused, the separation is either a voluntary leaving or a discharge and refusal of new employment as prescribed in R6-3-50315.
- B. If a worker separates from the employer before finishing a contracted assignment, the separation is either a quit or a discharge based on the reason for the noncompletion.

R6-3-50305. Military service (V.L. 305)

For purposes of administering A.R.S. § 23-775 but not for determining monetary eligibility, a separation from the military service is always considered as a discharge for reasons other than misconduct.

R6-3-50345. Retirement Pension—retirement (V.L. 345)

- A. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (B) and R6-3-50135.02, a worker who chooses to retire from employment leaves voluntarily without good cause in connection with his the employment.
- B. If a worker retires Retirement for health reasons, of health the Department shall determine whether the worker left for good cause in connection with the employment or for a compelling personal reason not attributable to the employer as prescribed in should be considered under R6-3-50235.
- B. A worker who has no alternative to retiring or leaving to accept a pension, because of a requirement imposed by his employer or a collective bargaining agreement, is discharged for non-disqualifying reasons when:
 - 1. The collective bargaining agreement under which he is employed requires his retirement at a prescribed age; or
 - 2. A rule of his employer requires him to leave work upon reaching a specified retirement age; or

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

3. He is notified by his employer that he has no choice but to accept early retirement.

Note: See R6-3-54407(B) regarding non-charges resulting from a termination by retirement.

R6-3-50385. Relations of alleged cause to leaving (V L 385)

A worker may not give his primary reason for leaving work when he files his claim. The incident or situation which actually caused the separation may have occurred some time prior to the time the claimant quits. It is important that questionable cases be fully explored to be certain that the alleged reason for leaving is the primary cause. Verification or rebuttal of the claimant's statement is important and should be obtained when possible.

R6-3-50440. Termination of employment—temporary cessation of work (V L 440)

A. General (V L 440.05). A temporary separation from work or cessation of work does not necessarily sever the employer-employee relationship, even if the employee obtains work with another employer during the temporary separation.

1. The employer-employee relationship continues when there is a definite agreement between the employer and worker that the worker will resume his employment at a definite time or on the occurrence of a definitely foreseeable event.
2. In such cases, issues may arise from the initial or intervening employment that require adjudication. Other issues will arise later if the worker does not return to work for the employer with whom he had the continuing employer-employee relationship.

B. Temporary shutdown (V L 440.1)

1. The employer-employee relationship continues when a worker is temporarily laid off because his employer suspends any or a part of his operation for a definite period of time provided:
 - a. The shutdown is of short duration; generally a four-week period will be considered a maximum; and
 - b. The worker is given definite assurance of reemployment at his regular job or other suitable work when the employer resumes his operations; and
 - c. The employee has worked for the employer long enough to have established a firm attachment to the employment. The general pattern for the industry and occupation involved will serve as a guide to establish such attachment.
2. Workers unemployed due to a temporary shutdown who meet eligibility requirements are entitled to unemployment benefits during the period of the shutdown except where the temporary unemployment is due to "Customary suspension of operations" as described in A.R.S. § 23-775, paragraph (4).
3. A worker's failure to return to work at the specified time following a temporary shutdown will create additional issues for adjudication. His reason for not returning will determine the type of separation involved.

C. Leave of absence (V L 440.2)

1. A leave of absence is an agreement between the employer and the employee that gives the employee definite assurance of returning to work on a specified date, or on the occurrence of a reasonably foreseeable event. It may be either oral or written and may be based upon a collective bargaining agreement or on company policy.
2. A leave of absence does not exist simply because one or both parties says it exists. An understanding which offers only a preference for rehire is not a leave of absence.
3. The separation of a worker who does not resume his employment at the expiration of leave which offers only a preference for rehire shall be adjudicated based on the reason for the absence. See R6-3-50135(G) for definite or indefinite leave.

D. Disciplinary suspension of definite duration (V L 440.3)

1. When a worker is placed on disciplinary suspension of definite duration there is a presumption that the employer-employee relationship continues during the suspension period. Notice by the claimant that he does not intend to return to work or notification by the employer to the claimant that the job will not be available at the conclusion of the suspension would terminate the employer/employee relationship.
2. A separation during a disciplinary suspension period can result in a finding of voluntary leaving, discharge, or compelling personal reasons depending on the individual circumstances.
3. If the employer notifies the claimant that his employment is terminated during the suspension period it must be determined if the worker's unemployment is due to misconduct in connection with the work. The issue will be resolved by using the misconduct rules.
4. If a worker fails to return to work following a disciplinary suspension of definite duration his reason for not returning will determine the type of separation involved. Consideration must be given to the following:
 - a. The duration of the suspension period;
 - b. Whether the incident which brought about the disciplinary suspension would render the work to which the claimant would return unsuitable for him;
 - c. Whether compelling personal circumstances have arisen during the period of the disciplinary suspension which would create undue hardship on the claimant if he were to return to his former employment.
5. If the duration of the suspension period was for such a long period of time that the worker could not reasonably be expected to hold himself in readiness to return to work at the end of the suspension, the adjudicator may determine that the suspension was in fact a complete termination of the employer-employee relationship, and the claimant's employment ended when he was placed on suspension. In such cases the separation will be adjudicated based on the reason for the suspension.
6. If compelling personal circumstances have arisen during the suspension that would create undue hardship on the claimant if he were to return to his former employment, or he has accepted other full time employment during the disciplinary suspension, he would leave for compelling personal reasons not attributable to the employer.
7. If returning to work at the end of a disciplinary suspension would create an intolerable work situation for the claimant, the adjudicator will hold that he left work voluntarily with good cause in connection with his work.

E. Corporate officer (V L 440.6)

1. Generally when an individual worker purchases an interest in a going business or participates in providing capital for a business he becomes a part owner or corporate officer and assumes a responsible position in the firm.
2. If a corporate officer's employment is terminated because of reorganization, personal finances, or differences between the officers, a determination on his separation will be based upon the individual circumstances of the case. Depending upon such circumstances his separation may be a voluntary leaving, a discharge, or for compelling personal reasons.

F. Altered conditions of work (V L 440.7)

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

1. When an individual leaves work because the conditions of employment are altered from those existing at the time of hire or in a prior job assignment a question arises as to whether there was an offer of a new job. In some instances the altered working conditions constitute new work. This includes cases such as a new contract of hire, transfer to a different department, a different type of work, or a different plant. For a discussion of cases involving "New Work" see R6-3-50315.
2. A separation from a "temporary help" firm upon the completion of an assignment is either a quit or a layoff due to lack of work.
 - a. If the worker has, in accordance with the employer's rules and procedures which the worker knew or should have known, failed to report to the employer regarding subsequent work, the separation is a quitting of work to be adjudicated under the appropriate section of the Benefit Policy rules.
 - b. If the worker reported to the employer in the manner required and the employer did not refer him to work immediately, the separation is a layoff for lack of work.

R6-3-50495. Voluntary (V-L 495)

- A. The word voluntarily as used in a disqualification for leaving applies to a worker who terminates his employment when there is no compelling reason to do so.
- B. The fact that a leaving is the worker's own intentional act does not necessarily mean that it is voluntary. Many circumstances personal to the claimant as well as those related to his work may compel him to leave. A claimant may quit because he has to, not because he wants to. Examples are:
 1. The claimant becomes disabled or ill to the extent he cannot perform his work.
 2. The work is injurious to his health or safety.
 3. He is unable to obtain transportation to get to and from work.
 4. Compelling legal, moral, or family obligations leaves him no suitable alternative to leaving.
- C. Leaving work under such circumstances is the result of reasonable necessity, and is involuntary.

R6-3-50505. Work, definition of (V-L 505)

- A. The definition of "work" or "employment" as used in a voluntary leaving determination refers to the employment relationship. Neither a worker's physical presence at the employer's establishment nor his continuous performance of the job duties is necessary to maintain an on-going employer-employee relationship. He may be on a leave of absence.
- B. A disqualification should be applied only to a disqualifying separation from the claimant's most recent work, immediately preceding the unemployment for which he seeks benefits. This would include a separation from temporary or non-covered employment. See definition of last employment R6-3-5495.

ARTICLE 51. DISCHARGE MISCONDUCT BENEFIT POLICY

R6-3-51135. Discharge or quit (Misconduct 135)

- A. General (Misconduct 135.05). For a general discussion of the discharge or quit provisions of these rules review R6-3-50135(A).
- B. Discharge before effective date of resignation (Misconduct 135.25)
 1. When a claimant submits his resignation and is discharged by the employer before the effective date of the resignation, his separation shall be adjudicated in accordance with the applicable Section of these rules, as well as the following:
 2. If the discharge is because of the resignation, and is 15 days or more before the effective date of the resignation the separation shall be a discharge for reasons other than work-connected misconduct.
 3. If the discharge is because of the resignation and is less than 15 days before the effective date of the resignation, the separation is a quitting of work to be adjudicated on the merits of the reason for the resignation.
 4. If the discharge is not because of the resignation, the separation shall be adjudicated on the basis of the reason for discharge. Leaving work before the effective date of the resignation submitted to avoid a discharge for misconduct shall be considered a discharge for work-connected misconduct, and a separation because of a resignation which leaves it up to the employer to determine the effective date shall be a quitting of work and will be adjudicated on the merits of the reason for the resignation.

C. Leaving in anticipation of discharge (Misconduct 135.35)

1. Leaving work in anticipation of a discharge may be a discharge or a quit depending on the individual circumstances of the case. The intention of the employer and the claimant must be analyzed to determine who initiated the separation and who carried it out.
2. Adjudicators should bear in mind that a worker may voluntarily quit to avoid a discharge for misconduct because he feels that his employment record would appear in a more favorable light. Such a leaving is a discharge for misconduct and is to be adjudicated under the appropriate misconduct rule.
3. When a claimant leaves work in anticipation of a discharge for reasons other than misconduct, the decision should be based on his reason for leaving.
4. For a further discussion of leaving in anticipation of discharge adjudicators should review R6-3-50135(D).

R6-3-51345. Retirement Pension—retirement (Misconduct 345)

For a discussion of Pension—Retirement refer to Voluntary Leaving R6-3-50345.

- A. A worker who has no alternative to retiring or leaving employment to accept a pension, because of a requirement imposed by the worker's employer or a collective bargaining agreement, is discharged for nondisqualifying reasons when:
 1. The collective bargaining agreement under which the worker is employed mandates the worker's retirement at a specified age;
 2. The employer has a rule mandating retirement at a specified age; or
 3. The employer notifies the worker that the worker has no choice but to accept retirement.
- B. The Department shall determine the employer's chargeability for benefits in accordance with A.R.S. § 23-727 and R6-3-1708.

ARTICLE 52. ABLE AND AVAILABLE BENEFIT POLICY

R6-3-5240. Attendance at school or training course (Able and Available 40) Attendance at School or Training Course

- A. Department regulation R6-3-1805 provides in part: "An individual shall be presumed to be unavailable for work for any week of unemployment if such individual is a student; provided, however, that such presumption may be rebutted upon a showing to the satisfaction of the Department that such individual was, in fact, available for work...."

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

1. Full-time attendance at an educational institution creates a presumption that a claimant is unavailable for work. A claimant who is attending, or during the most recent regular term has attended, an educational institution on a full-time basis, is considered a "student" and presumed unavailable for work. This presumption may be rebutted if the claimant has not, in order to attend school, left suitable full-time work, refused suitable full-time work, or reduced his hours to part-time work and has established a sufficient pattern of concurrent, full-time work and full-time school attendance during the nine months preceding his now or additional claim to show that school attendance will not in itself interrupt full-time employment.
 2. A full-time student can remove the presumption that he is not available for work only by having established a definite pattern of regular, full-time work during regular school terms and vacation periods, showing that school attendance will not in itself interrupt full-time employment. This does not apply to individuals who only attend night school, or to individuals who have a history of full-time employment during hours other than the hours they are attending, or during the most recent regular term have attended, classes at an educational institution. Their availability should be tested by the same criteria applied to an individual who is attending school on a part-time basis.
 3. A claimant who could not have established such a pattern because of active military service may be considered available for work provided:
 - a. He conducts an active and realistic work search, and
 - b. He can establish that he can and is willing to either change class hours or drop classes to accept suitable full-time work, or
 - c. The Department determines that there is a substantial labor market for full-time work in his skills at other than his class hours.
 4. A claimant considered a student by virtue of having attended school during the most recent regular term may remove the student status by a substantial showing that he will not return to school during the current or next regular term. A substantial showing is more than just a statement that the claimant does not intend to return to school. The adjudicator shall examine the claimant's search for work, personal circumstances, and such other factors that might indicate his true intentions, and shall obtain a sworn statement from the claimant on his intentions relative to returning to school. When the adjudicator deems it appropriate, he shall include in the sworn statement a paragraph that the claimant understands that the law provides both civil and criminal penalties for misstatements made to obtain benefits.
 5. Part-time school attendance does not necessarily affect a claimant's availability for work, if it is shown that the schooling is only incidental to full-time employment and there is a reasonable expectancy that he may obtain full-time work for which he is qualified during the hours he is free to accept such work. Whether the claimant could or would, if necessary, change his school hours to accept full-time work, whether he has invested a substantial amount in tuition, fees, or in special equipment, or whether he will lose credit if he leaves before the completion of the course are important factors in determining his availability.
 6. A claimant who leaves full-time work to enroll for part-time schooling renders himself unavailable for work during the period he is attending school because he has shown schooling is not incidental to full-time employment.
- B. Attendance at approved training (Able and Available 40.1). A.R.S. § 23-771.01 of the Employment Security Law of Arizona provides in part:
- "Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, no otherwise eligible individual shall be denied benefits for any week which begins on or after January 2, 1972, because he is in training with the approval of the commission, nor because of the application to any such week of training of any provision of this chapter relating to availability for work, active search for work, or refusal to apply for or accept work; . . ."
- Department regulation R6-3-1809 provides in part:
- ". . . Benefits . . . may be paid to an otherwise eligible individual while he is attending approved training only if the training facility states in writing with respect to each week that the individual is enrolled in and satisfactorily pursuing the course of instruction approved for him. . . ."
1. The above quoted references provide that a claimant who is satisfactorily pursuing a course of approved training is not subject to a determination of ineligibility because of any reason of availability or work search, or disqualification for refusal of work. Such claimant, if otherwise eligible, will be paid benefits based upon the certification of the training facility that he is enrolled in and satisfactorily pursuing the approved course of instruction.
 2. Entitlement to benefits will continue during any temporary absence from or cessation of training provided the claimant meets the requirements of the training facility and the facility continues to certify his eligibility during such periods.
 3. The claimant does not meet the requirements of Department regulation R6-3-1809 and is ineligible for benefits for any week the training facility certifies that the claimant is not satisfactorily pursuing the approved course of instruction.
- A. In this rule, "full-time student" means a person who:
1. Satisfies the criteria for being a full-time student, as established by the school the student is attending; or
 2. Is a part-time student at 2 different schools if the number of the student's combined hours meets at least 1 school's definition of full-time student.
- B. Except as otherwise provided in A.R.S. § 23-771.01 and R6-3-1809, a claimant who is or was a full-time student during the most recent regular school term is presumed unavailable for work.
1. A claimant who is currently attending school may remove the presumption of unavailability through one of the methods described in this subsection.
 - a. The claimant shows a pattern of concurrent, full-time work and full-time school attendance for the 9 month period before the claimant files an initial claim for unemployment insurance, and the claimant has not, in order to attend school or a training course:
 - i. Left suitable full-time work;
 - ii. Refused suitable full-time work; or
 - iii. Reduced the hours of work to part-time;
 - b. The claimant, who cannot establish a 9 month pattern of concurrent full-time work and full-time school attendance because the claimant was engaged in active military service or other similar service for the United States during that period shows that the claimant:
 - i. Is conducting a work search as prescribed in

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

tional objective must be realistically and clearly defined, and must be attainable within a 52-week period.

- D. If the period of training will extend beyond the duration of eligibility for unemployment insurance, the claimant must make a showing that training can be supported by some means after benefits are exhausted. No individual will be approved for training unless there is a reasonable expectation that the training program will be completed, and the vocational objective attained.

R6-3-5495. Disqualification: Definition of Interpretation of work, as Last Employment

For the purposes of A.R.S. § 23-775 the word "work" is interpreted as being the claimant's last employment immediately prior to filing the initial claim.

- A. The Department shall determine whether to disqualify a claimant as prescribed in A.R.S. § 23-775(1) and (2) based on the reason for separation from the claimant's last employment when the claimant:
1. Initiates a benefit year;
 2. After a period of intervening employment during the benefit year, files a request to reopen the claim; or
 3. During a continuous period of filing, is employed and later separates from the employment.
- B. In this Section, The term "last employment" is defined as follows means the claimant's 1. The most recent work:
1. Lasting 2 of two consecutive work days or more during which the claimant he worked the normal, customary full-time hours; or
 2. Lasting 2 Two days or more in the same calendar week during which the claimant he worked the normal, customary full-time hours; or
 3. A job from which he separated prior to its termination; or
 34. Occurring during a calendar week The most recent work in which the claimant has earned wages in a calendar week equal to or exceeding the claimant's in excess of his weekly benefit amount; or
 4. Regardless of whether the claimant performed services or met the requirements of subsection (B)(1) through (3), which the claimant voluntarily left or from which the claimant was discharged.

ARTICLE 56. LABOR DISPUTE BENEFIT POLICY

R6-3-5601. Definitions and Explanation of Terms

The following definitions and explanation of terms apply to A.R.S. § 23-777 and Article 56 of this Chapter:

1. "Class" means a number of grades of workers, joined together for a common purpose.
2. "Directly interested in," when used in reference to a labor dispute, means that an employee is a member of a bargaining unit in which the terms or conditions of the employee's work will be directly affected by the outcome of a dispute.
 - a. An employee may be directly interested in the labor dispute even though the employee is not a member of a striking union.
 - b. An employee may be directly interested in a dispute even though the employee offered to continue working, or voted against or otherwise opposed the labor dispute.
 - c. An employee is not directly interested in a dispute if the employee was not in the bargaining unit involved in the labor dispute, but may benefit from the labor dispute because the employer's practice is to bring the employment status of all the employees into line with a settlement reached with any particular group of employees.

3. "Establishment" means more than a factory or other business premises, and may include combinations or portions of factories or other premises. An establishment is each separate project of an employing unit if the project is a separate activity for the purpose of employment.
4. "Financing," when used in reference to a labor dispute, means that an employee is contributing money to enable workers to strike. Mere payment of union dues is not financing a labor dispute. If all or a portion of the employee's union dues are used to pay strike benefits, or to in some other way support the employee's union or another union involved in a labor dispute at the establishment at which the employee is or was last employed, the employee is financing a labor dispute.
5. "Grade" means a particular classification within an occupation, such as apprentice or journeyman.
6. "Labor dispute" means any controversy between employees and their employer over terms, tenure, or conditions of employment, or the association or representation of employees in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment. A labor dispute may exist without a union or a collective bargaining agreement. A strike or a lockout is a form of labor dispute.
7. "Lockout" means that an employer is withholding employment from a group of employees to obtain the employees' acceptance of the employer's terms. A lockout does not require the inclusion of all employees in a particular grade or class. A lockout exists when all the following conditions are present:
 - a. The employer demands some concession from the employees;
 - b. The employer withholds employment in order to gain the concession; and
 - c. The employer intends to resume operations with the same employees when the concession is gained.
8. "Member of a bargaining unit" means any employee or group of employees, whether or not the employees belong to a union or other trade organization, who are members of a grade or class of employees represented by a bargaining unit that engages in bargaining on wages or other conditions of work.
9. "Participating in," when used in reference to a labor dispute at an establishment at which an employee is or was last employed, means that the employee has taken definite action such as stopping work, walking out, striking, picketing, or otherwise lending tangible aid to the worker group directly involved. Membership in a labor organization or union involved in a labor dispute is not participating in the dispute in the absence of other actions.
 - a. An employee participates in a dispute if the employee refuses to cross a picket line at an establishment at which the employee is or was last employed, regardless of whether the employee is a member of the picketing union, if:
 - i. The employee's job was open and work was available so the employee could have worked had the employee crossed the picket line; and
 - ii. The employee's refusal to cross was voluntary. The employee's refusal is not voluntary if the employee risked physical violence by crossing the picket line.
 - b. If the reason for the employee's failure to cross a picket line is respect for the strikers' cause, the employee is participating in the dispute.

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

10. "Strike" means that employees have stopped working because the employees have not reached an agreement with their employer on terms or conditions for continued employment, or the employer has refused the employees' demands for changes in the terms or conditions of employment. A strike exists when all the following conditions are present:
- a. The employees have demanded an agreement with the employer or some concession from the employer;
 - b. The employees stop working in order to win the concession; and
 - c. The employees intend to return to work when the agreement with the employer is reached or the concession is won.

R6-3-5602. Labor Dispute Notice

A. Notice by Employer

An employer involved in a labor dispute, strike, or lockout shall, upon request by the Department, provide the following information:

1. The address of each location affected by the dispute, the date the dispute began, and whether strikers have formed a picket line at each location;
2. The name, address, and business agent of any labor organization involved in the dispute, and the date a contract or agreement with the organization expired;
3. The issues involved in the dispute and the grade or class of employees who:
 - a. Have left work because of the dispute;
 - b. Are not a part of the dispute but are unemployed as a result of the dispute; and
 - c. Are continuing to work; and
4. The name, social security number, and type of work performed by each employee who is unemployed due to the dispute.

B. Notice by Labor Organization

A labor organization involved in the dispute shall, upon request by the Department, provide the following information:

1. A description of the class of workers represented by the labor organization;
2. A summary of the matters in dispute;
3. Whether the labor organization has established a picket line;
4. Whether the members are required to do picket duty; and
5. Whether the members are paid while on strike.

R6-3-5603. Eligibility During A Labor Dispute

- A. When a worker's unemployment results from action taken in anticipation of the labor dispute but occurring before the dispute starts, the worker's unemployment is not due to the labor dispute. The start of a labor dispute does not change the reason for a worker's unemployment if the unemployment preceded the dispute.
- B. When a labor dispute begins while a worker is on an approved absence from work, and the worker does not return to work at the end of the absence because of the labor dispute, the worker's unemployment is due to the labor dispute. An example of a approved absence is vacation, sick leave, or other similar reasons.
- C. A worker who is a member of a grade or class of workers represented by a bargaining unit at the premises where the worker was last employed, who did not go out on strike with the other members, but who subsequently became unemployed because the employer limits or stops work as the result of the strike, is unemployed due to a labor dispute pursuant to A.R.S. § 23-777.

- D. When an employer can no longer provide work to a worker who is not participating in, financing, or directly interested in a labor dispute because of the absence of other workers who are on strike, the worker is unemployed due to a lack of work as a result of the labor dispute. The Department shall not charge the employer for any benefits paid to the worker while the worker's unemployment is a result of the labor dispute.

R6-3-5604. Termination of the Labor Dispute Disqualification

A. Discharge During Dispute

1. When, during an ongoing labor dispute, the employer discharges a worker who is unemployed due to a labor dispute, the Department shall not end the labor dispute disqualification until the employer establishes that the employer took positive and affirmative action to sever the employer-employee relationship, or the worker establishes that the worker:
 - a. Has been permanently replaced;
 - b. Abandoned the strike or dispute; and
 - c. Unconditionally offered to return to work.
2. Positive and affirmative action by the employer to sever the employer-employee relationship includes:
 - a. Resumption of operations;
 - b. Permanent replacement of the discharged worker;
 - c. Discontinuance of company benefits;
 - d. Transfer of the employer's location; or
 - e. Sale of the business.
3. Notwithstanding subsection (A)(1), the Department shall end the labor dispute disqualification and shall determine the worker's eligibility for benefits in accordance with the provisions of A.R.S. § 23-775(2) and Article 51 of this Chapter when the employer severs the employer-employee relationship because the worker:
 - a. Participates in a strike in violation of a no-strike clause in a collective bargaining agreement; or
 - b. Commits violence or unlawful conduct during picketing activities on, adjacent to, or directed at the employer's premises, property, operations, or personnel.

B. Quit During Dispute

The Department shall end the labor dispute disqualification if the Department determines the worker quit employment with a labor dispute employer, and does not intend to return to work at the end of the dispute.

C. New Employment During the Dispute

The Department shall end a labor dispute disqualification when the worker involved in an ongoing dispute has had new employment that began after the start of the labor dispute and the worker establishes the following:

1. The worker accepted the employment in good faith. Good faith means that the worker, in accepting the new work, intended to continue in the job and not return to the former employer at the end of the labor dispute.
2. The worker was employed by the new employer for at least 8 weeks, and in each week the worker earned an amount equal to or exceeding the worker's weekly benefit amount. One or more periods of employment, not necessarily consecutive, with 1 or more employers meets the duration test if the total duration is at least 8 weeks.

D. Termination of Dispute

A labor dispute no longer exists at the time the disputants agree it has ended and are willing to resume operations and return to work.

1. If there is no agreement as to the date a dispute has ended, the Department shall establish an ending date from the dates of the following events:
 - a. The return to normal business operations;

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

- b. ~~The end of bargaining meetings; and~~
- c. ~~The striking unions' notice of a desire to return to work.~~
- 2. ~~When a labor dispute ends, the worker is no longer directly interested in, financing, or participating in a labor dispute. The labor dispute disqualification ends with the last week in which the labor dispute disqualification is applicable for any portion of a day within the employer's regular work week.~~

E. Employer's Chargeability

~~The Department shall determine chargeability for the claimant's base period employers during and upon termination of the dispute as prescribed in R6-3-1708(D).~~

R6-3-5605. General (Labor Dispute 5)

~~The conditions under which payment of benefits may or may not be made when unemployment is due to a labor dispute are specified in A.R.S. § 23-777. The policy contained in Article 56 of these rules was developed to assist in administering this statute.~~

R6-3-5635. At the factory, establishment, or other premises (Labor Dispute 35)

A. General (Labor Dispute 35.05)

1. Definitions.

- a. ~~"Factory" is defined as an industrial plant.~~
- b. ~~"Establishment" has been interpreted by the courts to have a broader meaning than factory or other premises, and may include combinations or portions of factories or other premises.~~
- c. ~~"Other premises" is identified as any other location of work activity of the employing unit.~~
- 2. ~~To avoid confusion, the term "establishment" shall hereinafter be used and shall mean "factory", "establishment", or "other premises" as the case may be.~~

B. Separate branch or department (Labor Dispute 35.15)

- 1. ~~The term "establishment" shall be identified as follows:~~
 - a. ~~Each separate project of an employing unit shall be considered a separate "establishment" if the project is a separate activity insofar as the employees are concerned for the purpose of employment.~~
 - 2. ~~In determining which activities of an employing unit shall constitute a separate project and consequently a separate "establishment", the following factors shall be considered:~~
 - a. ~~Whether the employees for each project were hired for that project and are to be terminated upon reduction in force on its completion;~~
 - b. ~~Whether employees of an employing unit having different projects of activity worked primarily on one project rather than interchangeably on other projects;~~
 - c. ~~Whether separate production or work schedules were followed;~~
 - d. ~~Whether accounting procedures were such that contracts were bid or pricing was established for each project on the basis of separate cost accounting, separate tax computations, separate payrolls, etc.~~
- 3. ~~An employing unit may have separate "establishments" at the same location. (Beaman, et al, vs. Safeway Stores Inc.)~~
- 4. ~~Two or more locations may constitute one "establishment". (e.g. A company may manufacture a product in a "factory" in Phoenix, but warehouse the product in "other premises" in Tempe. The Phoenix employees frequently worked interchangeably between the two locations and pricing of the Phoenix company products includes its warehousing costs incurred at the Tempe premises. Con-~~ ~~sequently, if a labor dispute arose at either location it would exist at the Phoenix company's "establishment" which includes both the Phoenix and Tempe locations.)~~

- 5. ~~Each employing unit engaged in work activity at a particular location or project shall be considered a separate "establishment".~~

R6-3-56125. Determination of existence (Labor Dispute 125)

A. General (Labor Dispute 125.05)

1. Definition of a labor dispute.

- a. ~~The American statutory definition of a labor dispute has generally been that it includes any controversy concerning terms, tenure, or conditions of employment, or concerning the association or representation of persons in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether the disputants stand in the proximate relationship of employer and employee.~~
 - b. ~~A labor dispute shall be said to exist when one party takes some positive and affirmative actions to persuade or coerce the other party into acquiescence with its position; at this point unemployment occurs or is an immediate probability. The filing of a grievance or reopening of contract negotiations standing alone does not meet the requirements of this definition. For the action to constitute a labor dispute it must be taken by the employer or substantial number of a group of employees who could be concerned.~~
 - c. ~~A labor dispute may exist where there is neither a union nor a collective bargaining agreement, or when the dispute is between groups of workers, whether or not the workers are represented by organized labor. Strikes and lockouts are two types of action which constitutes a labor dispute.~~
- 2. Definition of a strike.

- a. ~~A strike occurs when individuals cease work because the employer refuses conditions demanded of him. A strike exists when all of the following conditions are present:~~
 - i. ~~A suspended employer-employee relationship;~~
 - ii. ~~A demand for some concession from the employer;~~
 - iii. ~~A refusal of work in order to win such demand;~~
 - iv. ~~An intention on the part of the employees to return to work when the concession is won.~~

3. Definition of a lockout.

- a. ~~A lockout is defined as withholding employment from a body of employees as a means of bringing them to accept the employer's terms. To be considered a lockout the employer's action must involve a substantial number of workmen, but not necessarily all of the particular grade or class. A lockout exists when all of the following conditions are present:~~
 - i. ~~A suspended employer-employee relationship;~~
 - ii. ~~A demand for some concession from the employees;~~
 - iii. ~~A withholding of employment in order to gain such demand;~~
 - iv. ~~An intention on the part of the employer to resume operations with the same employees when the concession is gained.~~

- B. Violation of contract or agreement (Labor Dispute 125.6). ~~When an employer has failed or refused to conform to the provisions of an agreement or contract between employer and employee, or a law of this state, or of the United States, per-~~ taining to hours, wages, or other conditions of work, the worker shall not be disqualified.

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

R6-3-56130. Directly interested in (Labor Dispute 130)

- A. Membership in the striking union is evidence, though not conclusive, of being "directly interested in" the labor dispute. If an individual's unemployment occurs during a labor dispute at the establishment where he is or was last employed and his wages, hours of work, or other conditions of employment are in dispute and could be affected by the outcome of the labor dispute, he is "directly interested in" the dispute even though he may have made an offer to the employer to continue working; voted against or otherwise opposed the labor dispute.
- B. An individual who was not in the bargaining group involved in the labor dispute, but who may benefit as a result of the labor dispute because the particular employer's practice is to bring the employment status of all his workers into fine with the settlement reached with any particular group of his employees, shall not be considered "directly interested in" the labor dispute. This situation is distinguished from Brobston, et al. v. ESC and Kennecott Copper Corporation, Ray Mines Division (385 P.2d 239), wherein the court held wages, hours, or conditions of work will be affected favorably or adversely by the outcome of the dispute. (Refer to Case 2 under R6-3-56125(A) of the Sample Case Section of the Benefit Policy Manual.)

R6-3-56175. Employment subsequent to dispute or work stoppage (Labor Dispute 175)

- A. A worker separated from his employment due to a labor dispute, who has had employment subsequent thereto, shall thereafter be relieved of the labor dispute disqualification provided the new employment:
1. Was accepted in good faith, by which is meant, among other requirements, that the employee is accepting the new work intended to continue in the job and not return to his former employer at the end of the labor dispute, and
 2. Was for a duration of not less than eight weeks, and in each of these weeks he had earnings equal to or exceeding his weekly benefit amount.
- B. One or more periods of employment, not necessarily consecutive, with one or more employers will meet the duration test provided the total duration was at least eight weeks.
- C. The requirement that bona fide intervening employment must conform to the two factors shown above is to ensure that only claimants disqualified due to the labor dispute, whose unemployment after the intervening employment does not continue to be due to the labor dispute, shall receive benefits.
- D. Both requirements must be met before a claimant can be relieved of the labor dispute disqualification after having subsequent employment. If the claimant upon accepting the intervening employment intended to return to his former employer, the duration of the subsequent employment and the amount of earnings from such employment is immaterial and the labor dispute disqualification remains in effect.

R6-3-56205. Financing and participating (Labor Dispute 205)

- A. General (Labor Dispute 205.05). For an individual to participate in the labor dispute which exists at the establishment at which he is or was last employed, he must take definite action such as stopping work, walking out, striking, picketing, or otherwise lending tangible aid to the worker group directly involved.
- B. Affiliation with organization (Labor Dispute 205.1). Generally, membership in a union involved in a labor dispute does not amount to participating in the dispute. (Refer to R6-3-56130 of these rules.)

- C. Payment of union dues (Labor Dispute 205.15). Payment of union dues does not of itself constitute financing a labor dispute. However, if all or a portion of the individual's union dues is used to pay strike benefits, or to in some other way support his union or another union, involved in a labor dispute at the establishment at which he is or was last employed, the individual is financing a labor dispute.
- D. Picketing or refusal to pass picket line (Labor Dispute 205.2).
1. Refusal or failure of an individual to cross a picket line at the establishment at which he is or was last employed, amounts to participating in the dispute, whether or not the individual is a member of the picketing union, provided:
 - a. The individual's job was open so he could have worked had he crossed the picket line; and
 - b. The refusal to cross was voluntary.
 2. The burden rests upon the individual to show he did not cross the picket line because:
 - a. No work was available for him; or
 - b. Physical violence, or a threat of it was present and this was the reason for his refusal.
 3. If the predominant reason for failure to cross a picket line is respect for the strikers cause, the individual is participating in the dispute.
 4. When an individual fails or refuses to cross a picket line set up in connection with a labor dispute and it is found the labor dispute did not exist at the establishment where the individual is, or was last employed, a determination as to possible disqualification shall be made under A.R.S. § 23-775, paragraph (1).

R6-3-56220. Grade or class of worker (Labor Dispute 220)

- A. General (Labor Dispute 220.05)
1. The use of the words "a grade or class" offers an alternative and implies there is a difference in their meaning.
 2. "Grade" is more restrictive than "class" which may include more than one "grade." "Grade" may be identified as a particular classification within an occupation, such as apprentice or journeyman.
 3. "Class" may identify a number of grades of workers, joined together for some common purpose. Recognized bargaining practices normally establish a "class" of workers.
- B. Membership in bargaining unit (Labor Dispute 220.1)
1. Any worker or group of workers, whether or not they belong to a union or other trade organization, who are members of a grade or class of workers represented by a bargaining unit that engages in bargaining on wages or other conditions of work are members of the bargaining unit.
 2. Individuals who are members of a grade or class of workers represented by a bargaining unit at the premises where they were last employed, who did not go out on strike with the other members, but who subsequently became unemployed because the employer curtails or discontinues work as the result of the strike are unemployed due to a labor dispute. (Refer to cases (2), and (4) under R6-3-56125(A) of the Sample Case Section of the Benefit Policy Manual.)

R6-3-56407. Chargeability (Labor Dispute 407)

- General (Labor Dispute 407.05)
1. The charging or noncharging of employer's experience rating accounts in labor dispute case will be in conformance with Department regulations R6-3-1402, R6-3-1708, and A.R.S. §§ 23-727, 23-733, and 23-777.
 2. It is sometimes difficult to determine if an individual's unemployment is due to a labor dispute or is due to some other reason. Although an individual's unemployment may have initially been due to a labor dispute, changing conditions may subsequently cause his unemployment to be due to another reason.

3. Charging or noncharging an employer's experience rating account may vary depending upon whether the unemployment is due to a labor dispute or some other reason, and the period of noncharging or charging may end when the reason for the individual's unemployment changes. Determining charges and noncharges in such situations will be made in accordance with the appropriate Benefit Policy rule, including the Labor Dispute Policy rules.

R6-3-56445. Termination of labor dispute (Labor Dispute 445)

A. General (Labor Dispute 445.05)

1. A labor dispute no longer exists at the time the disputants agree it has ended and they are willing to resume operations and return to work.
2. If there is no agreement as to the date a dispute has ended, evidence such as the employer's having returned to normal operations, discontinuing bargaining meetings, notice of desire to return to work by striking unions, etc., shall be examined in establishing an ending date. At this point, an individual worker is no longer directly interested in, financing, or participating in a labor dispute and the labor dispute disqualification is no longer applicable.
3. The period of the worker's disqualification ends with the last week in which the labor dispute disqualification is applicable for any portion of a day within the employer's regular work week. A worker may continue to be unemployed due to a labor dispute as provided by Department regulation R6-3-1708(F) with a resulting noncharge to the employer's experience rating account. The employer must supply information as required by Regulation R6-3-1708(F)(2).

B. Discharge or replacement of workers (Labor Dispute 445.2)

1. Certain actions by an employer during the course of a labor dispute may be recognized as a discharge from employment with a resultant severing of the employer-employee relationship. A worker by his action may sever the employer-employee relationship. (See R6-3-56175 of these rules.)
2. When an employer takes positive and affirmative action to discharge a worker, the unemployment ceases to be due to a labor dispute and should be recognized as due to another cause. However, discharge actions by employers during labor disputes must be carefully examined as they are often part of the strike strategy.
3. Positive action such as posting a notice or mailing a letter stating that certain employees are discharged should not of itself be considered as severing the employer-employee relationship. However, when coupled with other affirmative action it may constitute a discharge. Such other affirmative action could be:
 - a. Replacing the discharged employees, or
 - b. Eliminating employees' benefits, or
 - c. Resumption of production, or
 - d. Transfer of the employer's location, or
 - e. Sale of the business, or
 - f. Correspondence or communication with the affected employees.
4. In order to remove the labor dispute disqualification, the striking worker must not only establish that he has been permanently replaced, but also that he has
 - a. Abandoned the strike or dispute and
 - b. Unconditionally offered to return to work.

5. If it is determined that the employer has, in fact, severed the employer-employee relationship, the termination shall be adjudicated by reference to the appropriate Benefit Policy rule and the following:
 - a. Participation in a strike in violation of a no-strike clause of a collective bargaining agreement is usually misconduct connected with the work.
 - b. Violence or unlawful conduct committed during a labor dispute, strike, or lockout or during picketing activities on, proximate to, or directed at the employer's premises, property, operations, or personnel is misconduct connected with the work.
6. A worker's unemployment subsequent to the termination of the labor dispute may be a continuing result of the labor dispute. The employer may have replaced the worker during the labor dispute as a legitimate tactic or in response to the labor dispute without severing the employer-employee relationship. When a worker remains unemployed upon termination of the labor dispute and the employer supplies timely and sufficient information to show there is still an employer-employee relationship such as placement of the worker's name on the recall list, continuation of employee benefits (insurance, profit sharing, vacation and/or sick leave), or retention of seniority rights, the worker's unemployment continues to be a result of the labor dispute and any benefits paid shall not be charged to any employer's account. When the claimant's continued unemployment ceases to be a result of the labor dispute, chargeability will be redetermined.

R6-3-56456. Unemployment due to labor dispute (Labor Dispute 465)

A. General (Labor Dispute 465.05)

1. Individuals who are members of a grade or class of workers directly interested in a labor dispute and represented by a union or bargaining group in a labor dispute negotiations, are unemployed due to a labor dispute which exists at the establishment where they were last employed when:
 - a. They leave work at the time of the strike action due to the labor dispute; or
 - b. They become unemployed because the employer begins shutting down the job because of the strike action.

B. Discharge or resignation (Labor Dispute 465.1)

1. As in the case of a discharge action, a voluntary quit or resignation can have the effect of severing the employer-employee relationship and removing the labor dispute disqualification though the dispute continues.
2. When a claimant alleges he has quit his employment with the labor dispute employer, and does not intend to return at the end of the labor dispute, he deputy shall examine the reason for the separation and determine if the labor dispute disqualification should be removed before making a determination on the reason for the separation.
3. The claimant's statement that he has quit his job, standing alone, will generally not be sufficient proof that the employer-employee relationship is severed, as such will normally be considered as a self-serving statement. Corroborating evidence to show such quit is irrevocable or unequivocal should be supplied. The employer's statement regarding whether he considers the employer-employee relationship to have been terminated should be given considerable weight.

C. Lack of work (Labor Dispute 465.15)

Arizona Administrative Register
Notices of Proposed Rulemaking

1. ~~An employer may as the result of a labor dispute terminate the employment of claimants who were not participating in, financing, or directly interested in a labor dispute because he is unable to continue work at the job site where the claimant(s) were employed because of the absence of other workers who are on strike.~~
2. ~~In such cases the claimant's unemployment is due to a lack of work as a result of the labor dispute. (For an example, refer to Case (1), under R6-3-56465(C) of the Sample Case Section of the Benefit Policy Manual.)~~

R6-3-56470. Unemployment prior to labor dispute (Labor Dispute 470)

A. General (Labor Dispute 470.05)

1. ~~Unemployment resulting from action taken in anticipation of a labor dispute, but occurring prior to the starting of the labor dispute, whether employer or worker action, shall not be considered as unemployment due to a labor dispute.~~
2. ~~The beginning date of the labor dispute should be~~

~~clearly identified as described under R6-3-56125(A) and Case (3) under that Sample Case Section.~~

3. ~~An individual who becomes unemployed under conditions which severed the employer-employee relationship prior to the commencement of the labor dispute shall not have the reason for his unemployment changed if he has remained unemployed and a labor dispute occurs at the establishment where he last worked.~~

B. Absence (Labor Dispute 470.1)

1. ~~If the employer-employee relationship was not severed at the time the claimant last performed services prior to the labor dispute (i.e., vacation, sick leave, leave of absence, etc.). The labor dispute which commences later is said to occur at the establishment at which he was last employed as distinguished from at which he is last employed.~~
2. ~~The unemployment of the individual is due to the labor dispute if he does not return to work when he otherwise would have, had it not been for the labor dispute.~~
